ence.]-The signal guns of what is to be a de ned fight have already sounded in the senate Old man Morrill the other day poured out his high tariff soul in a speech as remarkable for its dryness as for its aggressive protection views.

Yesterday Mr. Garland, in his plain, unpolished style, gave vent to his free-trade opinions and varned the country not to sink into the grasp of the

Mr. Beck impetuously expressed his sentiments rather than his reasons for opposing a high tariff but promised to regale the senate before long with a set speech on this question. It has been one of his bobbles a long time. He seems to get fuller and

During this disconnected debate there were several references to Mr. Voorhees's Atlanta speech. That speech was a great surprese to many of Mr. Voorhees's friends. He has been explaining his meaning ever since it was made. But he has left so much of the original meaning that it is now said by his critics he is making ready for "a shift" in his

This is an unjust remark. There are many demhe has ever expressed. If such views would place a man outside the party Randall would have been a stranger to it long ago. Mr. Pendleton has been advertised to make a speech on the novel subject, 'civil service reform.'

It was expected yesterday. It is looked for again didate for the presidency he begins to talk civil service reform with great energy. It is a general pro mise of an honest administration if he succeeds. It is also a good line on which to approach the great influence of the army of office holders.

But a sensible democrat says: "It is no time for the democrats to be preaching civil service reform. We had better wait until we get a decent propor tion of the offices before we pledge ourselves to such a conservative doctrine. At present, the republicans have all to gain and nothing to lose by republicans have an to gain and notates that policy."

The resignation of Postmaster-General James have the resignation of Postmaster-G that policy,"
The rest enables of Postmaster-General James has been hurried up for some cause. He will go out on the first of January instead of holding on until June, as was generally expected until yesterday. Hatton has clashed with James, and other evidences have appeared to give him a suspicion that the carlier his resignation was dated the better would the administration be pleased. Everybody speaks well of James except the gentlemen to whom his discharge of duty has caused some anxiety. His probable successor is Mr. Chauncey I. Filley, of Missouri. He made a reputation for honesty and ability while postmaster of St. Louis.

It seems to be conceded that the southern republicans are to have the naval portfolio. General Longstreet is most prominently mentioned for the honor—so prominently that his friends think it has been determined to give him the place.

The Tennessee republicans, and some others, however, are urging as their choice ex-Governor Dayls, of Texas. The appetite of the southern republicans keeps up its edge beautifully. Every day brings a new supply of them to this great national feeding trough.

By the way an Atlanta republican has written ornings a new supply of them to thus great induonal feeding trough.

By the way, an Atlanta republican has written a letter to a friend here in which he states that Mr. Emory Speer has written to prominent republicans in Georgia, asking them to use their influence with Speaker Keifer to secure his appointment on the choice committees of the house. According to newspaper reports the young statesman has declared that he will never enter another democratic cancus and that henceforth he is to be entirely disconnected from that venerable organization.

Georgia slate makers say that Dr. Henry Carlton will probably be nominated by the democratic and the ninth the next time and that Hon. B. Duggar has set his heart on leading the simon pure republican element.

hasset his heart on leading the simon pure republican element.

There has been some talk about the small vote Randall polled for speaker. He fell 7 votes short of the supposed party strength. One of the delinquents was Mr. Reagan, of Texas. Last year he was chairman of the committee on rivers and harbors. Randall is so opposed to the appropriations usually given to this committee's bill that Mr. Reagan says that he arranged the committee so as to be in sympathy with his own prejudices. This was a sore offense to the member from Texas and he has never forgiven it. He did not vote for Randall, though I suppose he would have done so had his vote speak sufficient to elect. It was merely a til igh I suppose he would have done so had his been sufficient to elect. It was merely a tit

The latest cabinet rumor is that Frye will be attorney general and that Blaine will go back into the senate in his place. This lacks reason, for the administration would hardly carry out any such sheme in the interest of the great anti-stalwart. Besides, though Frye worships Blaine, it would be sacrificing a great deal to give up a new seat in the senate, where he already stands among the brightest men of his side, to accept the fickle favor of the administrative council.

est men of his side, to recept the nexte haver or she administrative council.

Some of blatne's friends think he will make a better race for the presidency if he keeps out of the tangle in the senate. As a natter of interest to the superstitious in politics it may be stated that no man ever went out of the senate to the white house Emory Storrs is spoken of for attorney general but it is still thought that the gossip which named Ben H. Brewster as the lucky man ten days ago wa correct.

"No admission to the floor of the senate," said. McDonell.
"I am a contesting member of the House," the stranger replied, loftily.
"From what state.""
McDonell informed the visitor that no such contestant was on his list for admission. The stranger had evidently come primed for discussion and began to unload upon the patient doorkeeper. Papers were produced showing that the case was a bonafide one, and at a general election duly held the bearer had received over 200 out of about 325 votes cast. Other business luckily called McDonell off and thus saved him a night session. The stranger was subsequently advised to keep his papers to himself for the present and submit them at the first chauce to the house election committee. He said he should certainly insist upon his rights.

WASHINGTON, December 14.—"It is a laughable nistake," said Senator Wade Hampton to a reporer, "that one of my daughters will soon make her lebut on the stage. Some Washington paper said hat my daughter would this winter make her deut in society, and some unsophisticated, but lever-hearted country editor enlarged on the item clever-hearted country chitor enlarged on the item and made it appear as a prospective debut on the theatrical stage. That is all there is in the rumor." The lady referred to is Miss Mary, the eldest unmarried daughter of the senator from South Carolina. Her beauty, grace and accomplishments warrant the prediction that her debut in Washington will be a most gratifying one to her honored father and the many friends of the family.

THE SENATE,

Washington, December 14.—Mr. Jones, of Flor-ida, submitted resolutions which were laid over intil to morrow, calling for information in the war office relating to the construction of a ship canal across the Florida peninsular, its cost and the sur-across the Florida peninsular, its cost and the surveys made.

At the close of the morning business the subject of presidential succession was brought up, and Mr. Beck addressed the senate to illustrate the urgency for legislative action.

Mr. Allison, from the committee on appropriations, reported favorably a bill supplying the accidental omission of the word "and" in the clause of the sundry civil appropriation act of last congress, making an appropriation for a new pension building. He explained that the omission had restricted the appropriation of two hundred thousand dollars then made to the purchase of a site, although it was intended to apply also to the purchase of a new building. Laid on the table at the suggestion of Mr. Edmunds, to enable enquiry to be made as to the sufficiency of the appropriation.

Mr. Garland, from the committee on territories, reported favorably, with written report, the bill to legalize the election of the territorial legislature of New Mexico held in 1880, and for other purposes. Placed on the calendar.

New Mexico held in 1880, and for other purposes. Placed on the calendar.

Mr. Sanders, from the same committee, reported favorably a dill to extend the northern boundary of Nebraska. Placed on the calendar.

On motion of Mr. Sherman, the committee on the Garfield memorial services was increased by the addition of two members.

Messrs, Conger and Brown were the two new members of the Garfield memorial committee.

The subject of the presidential succession, in the event of the removal, death, resignation or inability of both president and vice president, was considered. Resolutions were introduced by Mr. Beck and Mr. Maxey, and the bill of Mr. Garland being before the senate for discussion, Mr. Beck spoke of the senate for discussion, Mr. Beck spoke of the serious difficulties and confusion likely to arise from an enforcement of the act of March 1st, 1792, giving the line of succession to the president of the senate, or if there is none, to the speaker of the house. In the contingency therein provided for, and referred to there were many instances in which if any such contingency had arisen, these difficulties would have been illustrated. Mr. Beck regarded the substance of the bill rebridging over the difficulty.

Mr. Beck was opposed to Mr. Garland's bill, vesting the succession in the cabinet officers, because in the event of the removal of the president the cabinet might not only be implicated with the removal of the president, but might be shown to have advised the offense for which he is removed. Then, too, the cabinet members may not possess the requisite qualifications for the presignation.

OUR COMPLICATED RELATIONS

What is Thought of American Diplomsey in the Si-ter Republics-Various Matters Elucidated— The English Press on the Question—

WASHINGTON, December 14.-M. Martinez, the chilfan minister to this country, was interviewed to-night at his residence in this city by a reporte with reference to the Chili-Peru corresponden published by Secretary Blaine with the approval of he president. The minister speaks Span French much more easily than he does English, and occasionally his daughter assisted in the con ersation as interpreter. "The text of the correspondence published to day," said the minister, "was made known to me some months ago. It was not, therefore, any sur rise to me when I saw it in print." "There is a feeling expressed that Sceretary Blaine's interference in the matter was uncalled

'Oh, yes: some time ago.'

"How did that happen?

"There was published a memorandum of a conersation between Minister Hurlbut and Admiral Lynch, which created a bad impression and feeling a Chili. My government sent a dispatch to Minis er Kilpatrick, asking him what it meant. In reply dinister Kilpatrick published his instructions. had a perfect right to do so, as you can see from the oncluding portions of Secretary Blaine's communcation to him."

"It was regarded generally, as I also regard it, the nly way to reach a final favorable result without ctual intervention on the part of the United States. The Chilian government did not regard Mr. Blaine's remarks in the nature of meddling, but re ceive I them as friendly suggestions. Several South American governments have sent their envoys ex-traordinary to Chili for the purpose of expressing te same friendly sentiment toward Chili."

"Will the death of Minister Kilpatrick make the "I think not. Your people will find now that he resent situation more intricate?" I think not. Your people will find now that he read according to instructions. I am sorry that our people misunderstood, as they seem to have one by the papers, the intention of your govern-ent."

"That was because the people did not know the whole correspondence" explained the reporter.
"No," said the minister, laughing, "they were not the secretary."
"Have you any idea what will be the outcome of these troubles?"
"That is too difficult a question to answer in a moment. I can't tell."

OLD MAN CHRISTIANCY CALLED IN. The attention of ex-Minister Christiancy was alled to-night to the published correspondence of he state department with the United States minis ers to Peru and Chili, on the subject of the recog ers to Peru and Chili, on the subject of the recognical to the given the Calderon provisional government, and particularly to that portion of it consisting of a dispatch to himself, under the date af May 1, 1881. Mr. Christianey, on looking over the dispatch ourporting to have been the one addressed to him, lemed its correctness. He said, alluding to the opening paragraph of the dispatch, which poke of his having furnished the department with aformation that the Chilian government had reused to recognize General Pierola, and that Senor adderon was at the head of the provisional government: "That paragraph was not in the dispatch received by me. That commenced with the words: "If he Calderon government is supported," etc. It

"There was but one course for me to pursue," continued the ex-minister, "and that was torecognize the Calderon government, which I did, though contrary to my judgment."

"I authorize you to say this," he added, emphatically, "I recognized the Calderon government against my best judgment, in obedience to the au-permission in the main of represented to the de-partment the advisability of recognizing Senor Calderon's government, as the opening portion of his dispatch to him would seem to imply, Mr. Christianey said "No, I made no such representa-tions. There never was a minister who kept his government, better informed than I did sides and preserve the friendly relations of the United States with them. I left this friendly feeling to this government when I came home."

Continuing, he said: "They cannot saddle the responsibility of the recognition of the Calderon government on me, because I opposed it, and my correspondence is on record in the department. It is extensive, and fills three large volumes, and can be had when called for. Any member of congress can ask that the whole correspondence be made public."

In answer to a question as to what inference he placed on the action of the state department in the premises he said: "Oh, I have no inferences to draw from it. I was the United States minister, subject to instructions from the department. I received instructions and acted upon them. Having got themselves into a hobble, it is now for the department to explain. I have nothing to say, except that the records are there, and if called for will make a startling showing."

cept that the records are there, and if called for will make a startling showing."

That part of the purported dispatch to himself, which Mr. Christiancy says has been injected into the copy given to the public from the state department is as follows:

SIR-In your last dispatch you informed this department that the Chilhan government refused absolutely to recognize General Pierola as representing the civil authority in Feru, and that Senor Calderon was at the head of the provisional government.

ENGLISH CRITICISM.

ENGLISH CRITICISM.

LONDON, December 14.—The Times, in its leading article this morning on the relations of the United States with Chili and Peru, continues as follows: It is satisfactory that Hurbut's eccentricities have been reproved by the state department. We cannot doubt that America is sincere in her desire to reconcile the victors, and the vanquished. The appearance of dictation and partismiship may by explained by the unitness of the instruments chosen by the secretary of state. It is not likely that England or any European state will be tempted to meddle in the affairs of South America, but such intervention might be necessary. If European interests should be affected, it must not be imagined that the European powers can acquisees in a very wide extension of the Monroe doc trine as implied in Secretary Blaine's dispatches. The intervention for the protection of European interests is as rightfully claimed by the powers sax it is by the United States for the protection of their interests in Chima and Japan.

The St. James Gazette says: There is nothing in ed by the powers as it is by the Inited States for the protection of their interests in China and Japan.

The St. James Gazette says: There is nothing in Blaine's dispatches with which it would be reassonable or profitable for the European governments to find fault, but there is much cause for reflection that Europe will have in the future to regard the United States as having a foreign policy of their own, although that policy may only concern South America, yet considering the commercial ties between South America and Europe, it may cross and confuse the policy of the European governments in a way and to an extent now only faintly foreseen.

JUMBLED JOTTINGS

DESCRIBING THE CRIMES AND AC CIDENTS OF THE DAY.

Terrible Time at Sea-The Consternation of the Passengers-A Murderer Arrested-A Philadel-phia Burglary-Railroad Accident-A

NEW YORK, December 14.—The steamship Nederland, which arrived from Antwerp this morning, had the roughest experience of any vesse' so far since the tempestuous weather set in. She sailed from Antwerp on November 23, and on the third day it began to grow rough. The two following days the wind kept increasing in velocity, and on the 26th the gale had reached its height. Sea after sea swept over the decks and disaster followed disaster. First the wheel house was stove in, severely injuring one sailor; then sail after sail was swept away, with spars and railing, and at last th a victim which the waves were ready to sacrifice he was then a rudderless ship in a hurricane, with six hundred persons on board. The picture esented was that of tremendous seas, a hurri cane, incessant lightning and thunder, the engines otionless, passengers below struggling about in water knee-deep, mothers clasping children to their reach the deck and every soul believing that their last earthly hour was being spert. It was 48 hours before temporary repairs could be made so as to get the vessel under control of the rudder again, but the immediate danger lasted 72 hours longer. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon of the 27th a breaker took away the chart room, the saloon companionway badly hurt six sailors, besides breaking the left thigh of Herman Gockstock, the boatswain. The next morning another breaker broke two iron stanchions, eight inches in diameter, of a davit on the port side. One of them was skylight; at the same time the companionway over the second cabin was demolished. During the five days that the hurricane lasted, the sailors made no attempt to go on deck, with the exception of one on the lookout. On the bridge the officers took their turns at duty, two going on lashed together with ropes. The wind blew so violently that they could not make themselves heard even with mouth to ear. On the 28th, the smokepipe of the galley went by the board, water poured in, the fires were quenched and no food coald be cooked. This accident added another discomfort, as nothing but hard sea biscuit could be obtained to eat until the fires were lighted on the morning of the second day afterward.

The surgeon says the night of the 27th was the most eyerful time of the 18th.

nres were lighted on the morning of the second day afterward.

The surgeon says the night of the 27th was the most eventful time of his life. He was called to attend a woman in the steerage who was about to become a mother. A man stood on either side to hold him up while the woman received his services. The women about streamed in concert with the new mother's agony, and the men glaren like wild beasts. Fright had transformed them into beings almost inhuman in feeling. Leaving the steerage the surgeon was summoned to attend Mrs. Anna C. Dyckman, a French womgn, sixty-two years old, on her way from Brussels to Philadelphia, She had asthma, For eight days she refused through fright to lie down, but sat in a chair. Her imprudence brought on an attack of the disease which proved fatal, "Two children also died from the fearfully rough passage. fatal, Two chi rough passage.

The bagage car and three passenger coaches left the track. Two passengers had their arm broken. The accident was caused by a misplaced rail. The matter is being investigated by the railroad authorities.

PETERSEURG, Va., December 14.—Information has been received here of the death of R. E. Bailey, a well known citizen of Southampton county, who was run over and killed by a freight train near Iver station on the Norfolk and Western railroad last Monday. He attempted to jump from the train while in motion. His body was horribly mangled.

Washington, December 14.—[Special.]—George Scoville, Guiteau's counsel, lectured to night to a small audience, owing to the rain, as a large num-ber of tickets had been sold. He complained that the press and pulpit had prejudged the case. The pulpit condemned Guiteau on the assumption that he was sane, yet, not a single minister had ever called on the prisoner in his cell, and not a single letter had ever been written calling upon him to repent and turn to God. Nincteen-twentieths of all the letters received by Guiteau were threats against his life. Mr. Scoville expressed the highest admiration for Judge Cox, who, he said, could have conducted the trial in no other way than as he has without prejudicing the case. He expressed the belief that Guiteau would not live to see the conclusion, and the tenor of his remarks indicated that he expected Guiteau to die by violence between the court room and jail; that an organizelf attempt to secure him was to be made, and that Guiteau was insufficiently guarded.

reproduced a paragraph from the Cincinnati Enquirer, purporting to be an extract from a letter written by Dr. Boynton and indorsed by Mrs Garfield, as follows:

On the 8th of August, while in the president's bed-chamber, in the presence of his wife, he said to me that he never at any time made a request that Dr. Bliss be his attending physician, that position having been occupied by Dr. Baxter for several years, and that he had no recollection during his present illness of having sent for Dr. Bliss, and did not know how he happened to be in the case.

A Critic reporter, who called upon Dr. Bliss, eccived a statement from that gentleman, part of which read as follows:

I am much surprised at Mrs. Garfield's actions in this latter development. I am indeed more than surprised. Her actions during the illness of her husband and since his death are remarkably conflicting. I believe she really does not know to what she has subscribed in this letter. I hope, for her sake and for the memory of her husband, that it may be so explained. As I have stated on another occasion, I held a conversation with the late president on the third of July in reference to the treatment of the case. Only Mrs. Garfield was present. I asked who should conduct the case. The president said he desired that I should do so. I asked who should assist. He replied that I was better qualified to select my assistants than he was. Mrs. Garfield chimed in and assented. I named several physicians for assistants, and the presdept and Mrs. Garfield toth said they were perfectly satisfactory.

THE ASSASSIN'S TRIAL

ush, jam and scramble for seats at the Guiteau trial this morning. The first witness was Dr. John L. Witherow, of Boston. He related an incident oncerning his meeting with Guiteau in Boston.

concerning his meeting with Guiteau in Boston. Guiteau called on hinf in 1879, and requested permission to lecture in his (witness) church in reply to Ingersoll. Witness declined to have his church used for that purpose. He thought Guiteau possessed unusual cuteness, and never saw any indication of an unsound mind.

The trial was suspended a few minutes to allow the sick juror to step out. Guiteau took advantage of the opportunity to make a little speech, in which he said the object of the testimony was evidently for the purpose of showing if he knew right from wrong. The only question was whether or not his free moral agency was destroyed when he was impelled upon the president.

Charles A. Bryan, of the Equitable life insurance company, was the next witness, and related the connection of Guiteau with his company, and said he though thim a pretty shrewd fellow, but never saw the slightest indication of insanity.

Henry M. Collier, an attorney of New York, took the stand and testified in regard to the prisoner collecting $175 and failing to pay it over. During the examination of witnesses one of the jurors compained of sickness, and court adjourned until tomorrow.

Money on False Pretences.

TROY, December 14.—A few years ago Lorenzo Baker was one of the most prominet men in the northern section of this county. He did a large private banking business and also dealt largely in private banking business and also dealt largely in stocks and bonds. He was implicitly trusted, and residents or Schaghticoke, where he made his home and people in the surrounding towns, loaned him their money to invest. The Rev. W. H. Meeker, of Hoosick Falls, who had managed to scrape together over $10,000, intrusted the sum to Baker, at the latter's instigation, for the purpose of purchasing New York Central stock. So thoroughly did Meeker trust Baker that he did not ask to see the bonds which Baker claimed to have purchased, and unon which he paid interest for some

PECULIAR ACCIDENTS.

ON HER RETURN TRIP TO CINCINNATI. The trim young ship "Atlanta," laden with the reducts of southern soil and the results of southern products of southern soil and the results of southern labor, weighed anchor at 3 o'clock yesterday and started on her return to the port in which she was launched. It is to be hoped that she will encounter favoring winds, and that she will make a safe voyage to Cincinnait. The flowers with which she was bedecked on her first voyage have been removed, and her hull is covered with Florida moss with a trimming of cotton. The rigging was in trim order. The chimneys were covered with moss with a heavy band of corded cotton. The life-boats were covered with cotton and filled with samples of southern products. The main mast was a stalk of Florida sugar-cane, and from its side near the top hung the tassel of a sugar-cane stalk. The captain's deck was of cotton, and there Blackwell's bull 'held the fort.' The deck was of cotton. The cargo consists of twenty miniature bales of cotton—two of them from the Jaccard jewelry company and the others secured by the committee. This cotton will be placed on the deck. The hull is filled with other products. Mr. Voyle, of the Florida exhibit, furnishes all the fruits with some other products. Florida thereby shows in the cargo: Florida moss, a large shaddock, citrons, oranges, lemons, limes, grape fruit, Maumee apples, figs, tamarinds, cucumbers, vegetable marrow, watermelon, pine apples, Japanese persimmons, sheaf of oats and sheaf of rice, rice hulled and rice polished, corn. hemp, Florida Havana tobacco, smaß and large cocoanuts, dates, sea shells, corni sponges, pinders, goobers, cork, bread fruit, sugar-ane, potatoes, etc. With the other portions of the cargo are sumples of the goods of the Eagle & Phenix mills, the Willimantic linen company, tobaccos, and farm products. On the deck is a vase of cocooons, All these products make up a varied cargo for the little ship. Major Blacknall, of Blackwell's Durham, contributes a goodly quantity of Bull Durham cigarettes tastefully arranged in cases and in pyramids with a number of packages of flowers to the officers of the exposition. At three o'clock yesterday the party which will accompany it boarded a special sleeping car at the union depot and left for Cincinnati. The party was composed of Major J. F. Cummings, Hon. Redd, Miss Mabel Cummings, Colonel Sam W. Small, who will make the presentation address; and Mr. F. D. Gilman.

At the exposition hotel the train stopped, and the ship was taken on board, and the Atlanta with cargo and crew started on the return to Cincinnati. The party will return Sunday.

The following telegram, which was received yesterday from Governor Haygood, of South Carolina, Johnson Haygood, Governor.

An Address. The director general has issued the following address to the press: To the Editors of the Country: The announcement has been repeatedly made that the International cotton exposition will certainly close December 31st, but from hundred of latter daily received at this edited it is act will certainly close December 11st, but Iron undereds of letters daily received at this office it is evident that the people generally hope that something may occur to induce the managers to extend it through January. I, therefore, respectfully request the press to say that such an extension is absolutely impossible. The exhibits will remain intact until the last evening of this month. The work of removal will begin January 2d. I would also announce that the last will be in all respects the most interesting and important week of the exposition, and that the closing ceremonies will be particularly impressive. In giving to the press this, which will probably be the last general bulletin I shall issue. I desire to thank the journals of this country for the untiring and unstinted support they have given to the exposition from first to last. To this more than to all other causes combined its magnificent success is to be ascribed.

H. I. Kimball, Director-General.

Jefferson Davis.

A personal letter to Mr. S. Root contains the following relative to the exposition: "I rejoice in the success of this effort to attract notice to our section and to promote its material development. Need I add that I sincerely regret my inability to witness the manifestation? With ordial regard, I am very truly yours,

Director-General Kimball requests us to say that the exposition has no connection with or control of the bench silow now in progress at the park. It was at one time arranged to have the bench show under the auspices of the exposition, but this was subsequently abandoned and a party of Atlanta gentlemen took the matter in charge and are man-aging the show in their own way. Therefore the charge for admission is as legitimate as the charge to any other show inside the park not connected with the exposition. o any other snow in with the exposition.

H. I. KIMBALIA, Director General.

A Valuable Suggestion.

The E. Jaccard jewelry company would suggest that it will be found more convenient to make selections now from their exhibit in Art hall than in the few days immediately preceding Christmas. Persons who make an early visit not only have the first choice from the stock, but will avoid the hurry and bustle which will inevitably occur nearer Christmas. Articles may be left for future delivery.

J. & P. Conts's Spool Cotton Exhibit.

During the closing weeks of the exposition they propose to thoroughly keep up the interesting features of their manutacturing exhibit; and for this purpose have filled up their stock of unmanufactured material and brought on additional operatives from their mills to work up the same.

They show the various processes of skein winding, spooling, ticketing, and box making, and have sample spools for lady visitors; also ample and roomy accommodation for every one who visits the exposition. xposition.

Exposition Notes.

Notwithstanding the severe storm the crowds are still on the increase. Jones's restaurant takes good care of the crowds. The judges are earnestly at work and over a thousand reports have already been submitted to the director general for his approval.

Stevens plaques will adorn a thousand ho after the holidays.

Friday, the loth inst., has been designated min sters' day. A large number of distinguished divine tre expected and will hold a meeting in Judges hall at 120'clock.

People are beginning to appreciate the arrange ments for supplying parties who wish to compliment their friends with tickets of admission to the exposition. The Willimantic linen company yes terday purchased five hundred, Mr. Julius L. Brown twenty, Colonel W. C. Morrill, tweuty. As soon as people understand this, it seems likely that they will avail themselves of their use.

Stevens's goods are selected by competent and are the most reliable goods in the market The popularity of the special days designated by the exposition have created so great an interest on the part of the temperance people of the state that they desire to hold a great mass meeting at the exposition grounds, and Director-General Kimball has designated Thursday, December 22d for their day. Exercises of interest will be held at Judges' hall at 3 p. m. on that day. Appropriate addresses of welcome and responses from distinguished citizens and visitors will be made.

zens and visitors will be made.

Jones serves all the delicacies of the season.

Director-General Kimball yesterday received a letter from Hon. Jefferson Davis, saying that Mrs.
Davis had been taken quite ill, and that he was obliged to take her home by the easiest possible means, and felt that it would be impossible for him to leave her to respond to the invitation of the executive committee. He, however, expressed a deep interest in the exposition and his thanks for the compliment of the invitation by cablegram and otherwise.

Director-General Kimball presented the programme for the closing exercises of the exposition to the executive committee yesterday, which was fully approved and a large number of invitations will be issued. It is probable that that will be the most interesting day of the entire exposition. It is confidently believed that the signal for the stopping of the three great engines which have so successfully driven the immense amount of machinery luring the exposition, and all of which were ready und started on the day the exposition opened, will be given by President Arthur.

W. P. Jowers, the distinguished Webster county cotton planter, arrived in the city yesterday. He has his seed for sale at the exposition grounds to-day. They are indorsed by Governor Colquitt, Colonel Lockett, Harold, Johnson & Co., all persons who have planted them, as the most prolific seed planted. Two bales to the acre is his usual crop. Every person who wishes to secure fancy money-making cotton seed should apply at once.

The Press on the Exposition.

December 20th is editor's day at the Atlanta exposition. All the leading newspaper men of the country have been invited to be present. The chances are that for one day at least, the country will be left to take care of itself.

Cincinnati Times-Star. Cincinnati Times-Star.

In spite of the changes that winter brings in the weather it is cheerful to observe that the exposition at Atlanta is going right ahead, just as if flowers were growing and soft breezes blowing. Visitors from the north will probably find this the best time for going to see the south's great show.

Jackson News:

Jackson News.

The report that the cotton exposition will continue longer than the 31st of this month is contradicted. Everybody interested in the culture and manufacture of cotton should not fail to attend. Go prepared to stay two or three days anyhow, for you cannot see anything like all the show in a shorter time, and understand anything about it when you return home. It is the biggest thing ever in the United States except the centennial. It is even said that if the foreign exhibits were taken from the centennial the Atlanta exposition is the biggest show.

Prince Henry of Prussia, generally known as the "German naval prince," has received permission to travel in Switzerland, Italy and Egypt until the following May, 1882.

The great popularity of "Wilbor's Compound of Cod-Liver Oil and Lime" has Induced some unprincipled persons to attempt to palm off a simple article of their own manufacture; but any person who is suffering from Coughs, Colds or Consumption, should be careful where they purchase this article. It requires no puffing. The results of its use are its best recommendations; and the proprietor has ample evidence on file of its extraordinary success in pulmonary complaints. The Phosphate of Lime possessors a most marvellous healing power, as combined with the pure Cod-Liver Oil by Dr. Wilbor, It is prescriped by the medical faculty! Sold by A. B. SAVED FROM A HORRIBLE DEATH

Two years ago I contracted the horrible disease, and up to May last had spent $500 for treatment by the best medical men without any benefit, on the contrary, I grew worse. My mouth and throat becoming badry ulcerated, sores breaking out on my neck and legs. I also suffered excruciatingly with Rheumatism, growing very despondent, and my best friends advised me that the ley hand of death was fast ap-proaching, and indeed I felt such to be the case. This was my condition in May last. [I caught at S. S. S. like a drowning man at a straw. After taking two bottles I could feel a great change for the better. The sores began to discharge freely and the Rheumatism to abate. When I had taken six bottles every sore had healed, my skin began to assumed a natural appearance. I persisted in the use of S.S.S. until I had taken twelve bottle AND THERE IS NOT A SYMPTOM OF THE DISEASE REMAINING, and I feel as well as I ever did. I have gained 21 pounds in flesh and my friends wonder at my improved condition. have recommended it to many and in every instance with complete success. I believe that S. S. This will perhaps, be the first step in a bitter discus

A WORD TO THE BUSINESS MEN.

A short time ago THE CONSTITUTION SUG gested that the various merchants and manu facturers in and about Atlanta should furnish tickets to their employes and give them the time to go and spend at least one day a the cotton exposition in this city now rapidly drawing to a close. In furtherance of this suggestion the executive committee has had printed special tickets for that purpose, which they have offered to the merchants and manufacturers of the city. We regret to say that up to the present time none of them have availed themselves of this opportunity to do their duty to the exposition and to those who are engaged with them.

On yesterday a prominent exhibitor from a New England state bought one hundred of these tickets with two railroad tickets to ac company them and sent one with a specially engraved invitation to every teacher in the public schools in Atlanta, asking them to come and spend a day at the exposition as the guest of his company. This is an example that should have first been set to the exhibit ors by the Atlanta merchants; but since the exhibitor in question has shown so much more public enterprise than our own people they can do little less than follow his exam ple with a liberality and spirit that will show him that Atlanta intends to hold up her end of this great show. If our merchants would rally to this project as they should do, and as the exposition committee hoped they would do, we should be able to sound as a local war ery, "Atlanta still ahead."

UNITING TWO CONTINENTS.

The most attractive enterprise of the pres ent year, so abounding in attractive enter prises, has just developed. Upon the authority of Mr. Johnson, of the Houston Post, we learn of a railroad now be ing surveyed that is to bind together North and South America. This road has its starting point at Houston, Texas, runs southward through Mexico and on through Central America down through the isthmus of Panama into South America, piercing this continent and stopping at Rio Janeiro. The survey has been made for most of the route. It is proposed in running through Central America to hug the coast along the foot hills of the Andes, and in South America to hug the state line of Brazil. Vast subsidies have already been secured from Mexiand Central American and South American governments, and we are as sured that one thousand miles of railroad is already under contract. Mr. John W. Mackey, the great bonanza king, is at the head of the enterprise, and has promised to devote as much of his life as may be necessary to its

This is a stupendous undertaking, and yet the first thing that strikes the public upon be ing informed of it is the wonder that it should never have been undertaken before. It is an axiom of railroad building that the ideal road is that which runs north and south, bringing the products of one clime for exchange for the products of another. While roads running east and west traverse sections raising clusion is as significant, coming from the productions, yet \ there ids traversing this continent frem east to west, and none have pierced it m north to south. The charming possibilities of this new road, and the magnificent excursions it can offer, are beyond computaion. There is no dcubt that it will develop in a few years into an undertaking second to none to which man has turned his attention. It is but another step in the grand scheme of destiny that will put Texas assuredly upon the highway of the world's travel.

LOCAL INDEBTEDNESS.

. The fact that we are paying off the national debt at a rapid rate, and reducing the burden of interest which it imposes, is apt to lead people to think that as a people we are ridling ourselves of public mortgages. Such, it seems, is not the case. According to recently published tables-tables that are not disputed n any quarter-the local mortgage is simply supplanting the national mortgage, and the rand total is not materially varied and has not been in the past fifteen years. In 1880 the entire bonded debt of the country was 2,850 millions, and it has not varied from that sum more than ten per cent since the close of the war. As the national debt has een reduced, the debts of states, counties and towns and even school districts, have been increased. At present the national burden stands at 1,731 millions, and the local at 1,117 millions. If the principal has been somewhat lessened in fifteen years the interest ecount has not, because the local debts bear a higher rate than the national debt that they supplanted. The average rate of interest on the local debts is two per cent more than the national debt bears. The government, for instance, can borrow at about three per cent, while local public borrowers are compelled to pay all the way up to ten per cent. Atlanta itsetf, prosperous and full of promise, is paying to-day ten per cent on a portion of he

It is a matter of regret that the tendency to wards the creation of local public debts shows no abatement. There is a craze in some states for costly school There buildings, in others for water works, and in others still for new railroads. The per capita distribution of valuation and debt, and the percentage of principal and interest located and paid in each section of the country, omitting fractions of a per cent, is as follows:

Preap. Preap. Preap. Pret. Pret Valua- Debt. Inter- Total Total tion. est.
New England $661 27 $44 54 $2 47 est. Debt. Int Middle States...473 55 41 57 Territories...... 211 29 2 73

Total, U. S....$336 89 $22 28 $1 38 100 The objects for which this debt has been ontracted are in round fractions one-sixth railroads, an eighth each funding floating debt, refunding and water works. Streets have taken a little over a sixteenth and war purposes a little less. A tenth has gone to purposes not specified, and another tenth has been divided in nearly equal shares between buildings, parks and river improvements; and a twelfth between bridges, schools and sewers. The middle states have spent over two-thirds of the money put into bridges, parks, harbor improvements and streets. The western and southern states have incurred nearly two-thirds the debt for railroads, and the middle and western states over two-thirds the debt assumed for water works, public buildings and schools.

THE DOG INDUSTRY.

We have often been puzzled to account for the fact that all the arguments brought forward in favor of a dog law failed to have any perceptible effect upon the members of the Georgia legislature. It is freely acknowledged that but for the dogs in Georgia sheep raising would soon become a profitable industry, but in spite of this the men who are supposed to be interested in the welfare of the Georgia farmer refuse to place a repressive tax on the dog. The dog show now in progress in this city, however, has solved the problem, and we are puzzled no longer. The only wonder is that the members of the legislature have not had the hardihood to publicly acknowledge the truth. If the curious reader will refer to the list-of distinguished dogs printed n The Constitution yesterday, a simple alculation will convince him that an ordinary bob-tailed brindle cur, whose pedigree an be traced down a lane and across a horse ot, is worth more than twenty ordinary sheep. A pointer, with the ability to forage in the neighborhood and bring home a chicken ocasionally is of inestimable value, and a seter that "sets" in the back yard and howls at the moon is worth more than the Sunday preastpin of a hotel clerk. The dogs now on exhibition at the dog show are worth more han all the sheep in Georgia. One lady dog and a litter of puppies, if sold for what they re worth, would buy an improved farm of 500 acres, and 1,250 sheep. All this goes to show that our legislators are better informed as to what constitutes true industrial progress in Georgia than the newspapers.

A man with two liver-colored pointers and bench-legged whiffet is a millionaire and the only wonder is that every citizen doesn't avail himself of this simple method of getting rich. 'A colored citizen, with a single barreled shot-gun and a bob-tailed mongrel, has property amounting to five hundred dollars provided he is willing to put his distinguished mongrel on the market. We are informed by Colonel Hightower that an attempt was made to buy a thousand dollar dog. The offer was refused principally because the would-be purchaser offered two tortoise-shell thomas cats worth five hundred dollars each The trade, we are glad to say, was not consum mated, so that no precedent can hereafter be set up that one inestimable thousand dollar dog can be bought with two five hundred dollar thomas-cats. We are very proud of the dog show. It has opened our eyes to new possibilities of wealth. We are no longer in favor of a dog law. Such a law, by crippling the dog industry, would keep our people in a state of abject poverty so far as dogs are concerned. We want to se the day come when every man is his own millionaire, and if the prices of dogs keep up to the present standard that day will soon

PARTY ISSUES.

The New York Times, looking casually over the field and submitting the two party plat forms of 1880 to a fresh examination, con cludes that there are no issues between the two parties worth talking about. This conleading republican newspaper of the country, as it would be coming from a leading south ern newspaper; and its significance, in this nstance, lies in the fact that a journal which can be partisan upon occasion, and which has frequently made sectional appeals to republican voters, is prepared to admit that the real division, which existed between the people of the two sections, rather than between the voters of the two parties-to make a nice distinction-is so far healed that the country can now proceed with the real business politics. In spite of everything that has heretofore been said and done by the leaders of both parties, sectionalism has been the real issue in every campaign since the war. The northern people have been afraid to place the administration of affairs in the hands of a man elected by southern votesfear that led even honest republicans to indorse the frauds by which Mr. Tilden was dispossessed of his seat-and the southern people have been afraid to trust their liberties to a party which has gained its chief notoriety since the war by defying the laws of the land and by legalizing crime. There have been mutual distrust and mutual misunderstandng, and all of it has been perfectly natural. All indications are worthless, however, if recent developments have not convinced the people of the north that the people of the south have a lively and permanent interest in the present and future well-being of the government; while, on the other hand, the south has become convinced that a republican administration, owever stalwart, would hardly dare to fret and disturb the business interests of the country by repeating in this section a series of republican experiments that need not be decribed here. But, while it is true, as the Times says, that there are no really important issues between the two great parties, and while there is a brilliant lack of leadership so far as the democrats are concerned, there are, as yet, no signs of a breaking up. Both parties maintain, and are endeavoring to perfect, their organization, and each is eagerly watching the other.

There are those who believe that the tariff mestion will be the means of bringing about new party alignments, but there are no signs of such a result. On the contrary, there is every indication of a compromise which will at least defer this issue. The republicans cannot spare their free-traders, and the democrats are by no means willing to dispense with the services of their protectionists. There are comparatively few republican protectionists who regard the tariff question from the standpoint of the recent monopoly convention in New York, and there are few free-traders in the democratic party who would take the responsibility of destroying our custom houses, or who would not consent to afford a reasonable amount of protection to deserving industries. On the other hand there are few protectionists in either party who are not in favor of a just and systematic revision of our present tariff system. In addition to this, the present and probable growth of manufactures in the south-a sec tion that has shared in few of the benefits of protection, if there are any-has wrought a considerable change in public opinion. This change may be fairly measured by the change which has taken place in the attitude of the south with respect to internal improvements. The outlook now is that the stalwart faction of republicanism will compel their party to make one last appeal to the old animosities engendered by the war and by the controversies before and after. Whether this appeal will be successful depends altogether, as it depended in 1880, upon the skill with which the democrats are led. The probability is that Grant will be selected as the fittest representative of republicanism gone to seed. Arthur may be the man, or Windom, but whoever it may be, will have to follow the lead of the Guiteau element. Under these circumstances it is folly to talk about the disruption of the democratic party. STEWARD CRUMP, of the white house, is defendant in a libel suit brought against him by a cook is fame. The prosecution of Crump seems to be a part of the stalwart programme for destroying ev erybody who thought well of the late President

THE London Field says that the reason why American horses trot so fast is because our fast trot-ters derive their qualities mainly from Barbary horses; Barbary being rough, stony, hilly, intersect-ed with ravines, the horses were unable to gallop and accustomed themselves to the trot, which was the safest gait. The galloping English fast horses are of Arabian origin, where the country is flat and carpeted with sand, allowing them to gallop with ease.

At the New York Casino ball some young English girls wore short hair curled. Interview in New York Tribu: "What theater can you compare it with in this country?" asked the reporter.

"Well, I hardly know. It was not on large as the academy of music. Perhaps I might say that it was like the Madison Square theater in appearance, only much larger. It was situated in the best part of the city, and has always been used for opera. Before the present season began the directors were changed so often, and so much money was lost, that there was a scheme started to ture the place into a synagogue. But after Sarah Bernhardt opened there success seemed to attend it. It was at this theater that I succeeded in getting up a benefit for the sufferers by the Chicago fire. At that performance, which netted a handsone sum, Carl Treuman appeared. He had not sung for tifteen years. It was he who owned the theater called after his name, which was burnt in 1859." As a republican partisan, President Arthur must also be shrewd enough to see that the time is past when the republican party can be kept alive in the south by means of arbitrary governmental interference based upon reports of lawless and dangerous movements going on in the southern states. It was in that way that the republican party in the south lost all its vitality. Neither can it recommend itself to the southern selety as, a hotbed of devilish tendencies threatening the overrhrow of the republic. People do not like to strike hands with those who make it a business to revile them. But the republican party has a chance to build itself up in the south if it fairly appeals to those intelligent and pudlic spirited people who have so far attached themselves to the democratic organization merely because they thought such a co-operation necessary to protect their interests against republican misrule, and who now, having had a disagreeable experience of democratic misrule, are willing to favor any decent combination to check the latter. There is the opportunity for the republican party in the south. To profit by it the republican party in the south, To profit by it the republican party must approach the southern people in a just and kindly spirit and hold out fair guarantees for good government.

The Guiteau Trial.

Mr. Emory Storrs says "there is not a single exception to the rule that a man with insane inspiration from God ever boasted of it. It takes very dextrous handling to bring out the point. Erskine, the British lawyer, cites a case where a man believed that he was Jesus Christ, and no amount of questioning could bring him to acknowledge it, till at a sudden point the lawyer said: "Forgive me, I did not know that I was in the presence of our Savior;" whereupon the man bowed with dignity. A man is responsible for a murder if he could have restrained himself from doing it. Now, suppose anybody had stepped up to Guiteau that morning and said: "You dirty coward, I have got a pistol here, and will blow your brains out if you draw your weapon against the president!" would he not have slunk away? Thererofe, he could restrain his murderous propensity; and, being able to restrain it, he is responsible." Mr. Storrs also says that if Judge Cox should give Guiteau forty-eight hours' of sollitary confinement, with bread and water, after one of his offensive outbreaks, and then, if he repeated them, remove the spectators from the court-room, he would find a way to behave himself. He has no more rights than a counsel, and if a counsel interrupted as Guiteau does the judge would commit him in five minutes.

The favorite sons of states are not in such great favor as formerly. "The republican party," said a republican congressman the other day, "has not the recuperative force it had a few years ago. Its skillful politicians will not be able to discipline the factions, as of old, unless there shall be a change in leadership, or rather a concentration on a leader who has been on a plane above the party fights, but still a man well known, a true republican and a statesman."

further from the snarls in the party than any cman in it. He was not heard in the clash of man in it. He was not heard in the clash of arms at Chicago; he was not a party to the New York senatorial fight; he is not classed either as a haifbreed or a stalwart. All republicans look upon Edmunds as a stateman of too much breadth to be a factional leader or a factional follower. He is regarded as one of the very few men who might unify the republican party and lead it en masse in 1884. He is not a stranger to the presidential field, but the attention of republican conventions has been so thoroughly devoted to men who have been in the small political business of severing each other's jugulars the there has been no room for a man of Edmunds stamp in the balloting. He has been far enouga from partisan rancor to be frequently suggested for supreme judicial position, and he maintains that standard to a degree that makes him a man of mark and remark now.

Augusta Chronicle.

The democracy of the south are soon to be confronted with peril and temptation. We might as well look the thing in the face and prepare for the most remarkable onset that has occurred since the days of reconstruction. Under this onset parties may go to wreck and men will acquire and lose reputation. What the final issue may be is not now apparent. Well led and thoroughly prepared, there is no reason to fear the grand finale for the democratic patt. But if the democratic party is to be anywhere an asylum for blundering, we have fears for its peace, prosperity and future.

St. Louis Republican.

St. Louis Republican.

We cannot too emphatically reiterate what we have said time and again already, that if the solid south can only be held to the democracy by compromising with such Bourbon extremists as Mahone the sooner it is split wide open the better. If the democracy can keep power in the south only by submitting to the domination of those who urge repudlation, flat money and other rulnous dectrines we trust there can be no doubt that the democracy will prefer defeat. The republican party of the south is almost wholly composed of negroes, and it can bring no respectability or character to this element of the democracy, which leaves the democratic party only because there is too much honor and decency in the democracy to give it shelter. While such an alliance, therefore, may win temporary successes, the ultimate result will be to the great advantage of the democracy, which will be purified and strengthened by the expulsion of their oad element. What it will lose in the south will be more than compensated by gains in the north, and, above all things else, will the country be relieved at last from the sectional division of parties. To those democrats who want to follow Mahone, we say, therefore, God-speed. St. Louis Republican.

THE WEDDING FEE.

One morning, fifty years ago,
When apple trees were white with snow
Of fragmat blossoms, and the air
Was spell-bound with the perfume rare—
Upon a farm horse, large and lean,
And lazy, with its double load,
A sun-brown youth and maid were seen
Jogging along the winding road.

Blue were the arches of the skies, But bluer were that maiden's eye But bluer were that maiden's eyes! The dew-drops on the grass were bright, But brighter was the loving light That sparkled 'neath each long-fringed lid Where those bright eyes of blue where hid-Adown the shoulders, brown and bare, Rolled the soft waves of golden hair, Where, almost strangled with the spray, The sun, a willing sufferer, lay.

It was the fairest sight, I woen, That the young man had ever seen;
And with his features all aglow,
The happy fellow told her so,
And she, without the least surprise.
Looked on him with those heavenly eyes—
Saw underneath that shade of tan
The handsome features of a man,
And with a joy but rarely known
She drew that dear face to her own,
And by that bridal bonnet hid—
I cannot tell you what she did.

So on they ride, until among
The new-born leaves, with dew drops hung, The new-born leaves, with dew drops in the parsonage, arrayed in white. Peers out—a more than welcome sight. Then, with a cloud upon his face, "What shall we do," he turned to say, "Should he refuse to take his pay From what is in the pillow case?" And glancing down, his eyes surveyed The pillow case before him laid, Whose cotuents, reaching to its hem. The pillow case before him laid,
Whose cothents, reaching to its hem,
Might purchase endless joy for them,
The maiden answers, "Let us wait;
To borrow trouble where's the need?"
Then at the parson's squeaking gate
Halted the more than willing steed.
Down from his horse the bridegroom sprung;
The latchless gate behind him swung.
The knocker of that startled door,
Struck as it never was before.
Brought the whole household, pale with fright;
And there, with bushes on his cheek.
So bashful he could hardly speak.
The farmer met their wondering sight.

The groom goes in, his errand tells,
And as the person nods, he leans
Far o'er the window sill, and yells,
"Come in! He says he'll take the beans!"
Oh, how she jumped! With one glad bound
She and the bean bag reached the ground.
Then, clasping with each dimpled am
The prectous product of the farm, she bears it through the open door,
And down upon the parlor floor
Dumps the best beans vines ever bore.

Ah! happy were their songs that day. When man and wife they rode away. But happier this chorus still,
Which echoed through those woodland scenes:
'God bless the priest of Watsonville!
God bless the man who took the beans!' -R. M. Streeter, in Grand Rapids Den

AMUSEMENTS.

MADANE FAVART.—Notwithstanding the exceedingly bad weather, a very large and intelligent audience was present at becive's opera house last night to witness the production of Offenback's operation. The audience appreciated the pains taken to put it superbly on the stage. The libretto is witty, bright, and well wrought throughout. All who love amusement, and were not present at the opera house last night, missed a treat. The costuming and the courtly manners of the days of Louis of France, were nicely presented. The knightly dance, the grinnet, should have been seen. Miss Catherine Lewis as "Madame Favart," was exceedingly happy in her original interpretation, while her by-play was very neat throughout. The scene between the Marquis De Ponsable (Mr. John Howson) and herself, was a dainty bit of stage coquetrie, and her hearty laughter was so good as to induce the audience to follow the rhtm. Mr. Fred L'slie, as "Charles Favart," proved himself an artist of merit. As the "Marquis," Mr. John How of was excellent, his make-up as the old Chevalier was certainly artistle. Praise is due the grand procession in the last act; finer costumes have never been seen on our stage. It is a regret with many that the engagement of the company was not of longer duration.

THE RAILROAD WORLD

WHAT IS BEING DONE BY THE MAG-NATES OF THE RAIL

The South Carolina Road-The Movements of the Ceptral Railroad of Georgia-Probable Changes fin Bolding Stock-What the Erlanger System is Doing and Proposes to do.

Charleston News and Courier. The South Carolina railroad has been formally transferred to the South Carolina railway, and the Mr. Peck, who is one of the most capable railroad men in the south, has been elected general mana ger. He was general superintendent of the road, as ger. He was general superintendent of the road, as the public know, under Receiver Fisher, and is familiar with the philosophy as well as the practice of railroad management. It is presumed that the policy of the new company will soon declare itself. There is talk of giving immediate assistance to the Savannah Valley railroad or Atlantic and French Broad railroad, so as to reach, by way of Aiken and Edgefield, the rich country along the Savannah river and west of the Greenville and Columbia railroad. The building of a line from Camden to Chester is said to be likewise in contempiation. There is no safety in delay. The South Cerolina railway has the best wishes of the public, and it is high time for the company to do something for itself.

THE CENTRAL OF GEORGIA.

Angusta Chronicle.

Mention has been made of the proposition to unite the stock of the Ocean steamship company with Central railroad common stock. For some time past this scheme has been under consider tion by holders of Central, and as the matter ha been agtitated, parties have employed themselves diligently buying up Central stock, until the tion by holders of Central, and as the matter has been agtitated, parties have employed themselves diligently buying up Central stock, until the movement has grown into one of popular interest. At the recent meeting of the board of directors, in savannah, a dividend of four per cent was declared, although six, or even seven per centwas advocated, upon a basis of betterments, extraordinary expenses and improvements. At the stockholders' meeting, however, in January, an effort to secure a stock dividend will, it is believed, be made, which, though opposed by some of the officials and directory of the road, is said to be both natural and desirable, by those who favor the plan.

For four years and more the magnificent vessels of the Ocean Steamship company have been in successful operation between Savannah and New York. Beginning with two steamships in 1877, the fleet in 1878 was inceased to four, until in 1808 ax superb ships were doing active service in the line. This line was formed to be worked in the interest of the Central radiroad of Georgia, for freight and passenger traffic, and so completely have its objects been promoted that in a year's time from the floating of each ship they had paid for themselves, and are justly regarded as the best paying and most satisfactory adjuncts of the road. Mr. William M. Wadley has always been president of this company, while prominent gentlemen from the directory of the Central and of the Southwestern railroads have also been made directors of the Ocean Steamship company. This excellent property, with its steadily increasing income, is really the property of the Central railroad and banking company, and although the books and accounts of these ships of line are kept apart from those of the railroad, every one knows that the two corporations are one and the same. Disaster to these ocean auxiliaries must work discomfort to the railway system and dampen the stock of the road; so, the unexcelled profits of the steamship property, and declare it in a fifty per cent stock divid while we have the stock in our hands, and while the fines, the tides and the trade justify such large balances.

It is, however, all a mistake to imagine that this is an effort to depose Mr. Wadley from the presidency of the Central railroad. Nothing could, we understand, be further from the purpose of those stockholders than to put Mr. wadley out of the management and out of the directory. They share with all friends of that great corporation, and with the railroad men of the south, in the admiration of so fireless a worker and so faithful an official as Mr. William M. Wadley. Nor should be, they contend, think himself personally aggrieved by any action which the stockholders may determine upon, or at any policy which they may inaugurate. They are confident that Mr. Wadley is capable of assuming the responsibilities of carrying this extrastock, and that the extrastwo hundred thousand dollars interest can be easily made by him. That the Louisville and Nashville railroad is at the bottom of this coup is equally an error, it is said. That one or two men connected with the Louisville and Nashville may be interested in the Central, it is true: but there are only one or two, and their part in the present movement, however prominent it may be, is not an official one, or as representatives of their road.

There was a rumor yesterday on the streets that the advocates of this capitalization scheme have a majority of the stock in their hands, and that a prominent New York firm had countermanded a former order, and transferred their proxy to the side of the stock dividend—thus insuring its adoption. The majority of the Central railroad board of directors are believed to be opposed to the scheme, but these geutlemen are said to be, with one exception, small stockholders.

sof directors are believed to be opposed to scheme, but these gentlemen are said to be, one exception, small stockholders. What the come of this whole matter will be cannot no positively stated—but at this time and from distance it looks as if there would soon be a justion of the land and naval forces of the Gentalroad of Georgia.

THE ERLANGER SYSTEM. Selma Times.

According to the notice given a month ago, th stockholders of the Selma and Greensboro railroad net in this city yesterday. The principal object of the meeting was to increase the capital stock to two millions of dollars. A special car was brought in by the morning train from Montgomery, and is this car were the following gentlemen: Mr. Free Woolffe, of Montgomery, and Messrs. Theodore Cooke, Edgar M. Johnson, George F. Doughty Louis Krohn and Thomas T. Gaff, of Cincinnati Mr. Cooke is the president and Mr. Johnson is the attorney of the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas , which was recently organized upon the Pacific, which was recently organized upon the lease of the Cincinnati Southern by the Erlanger syndicate. A meeting was held at the office of the company on Water street.

It was voted to increase the capital stock to the amount of two millions of dollars, and to call the new organization the "Cincinnati, Selma and Mobile railroad company." Messrs. Fred Wolffe, of Montgomery; Theodore Cooke, Eigar M. Johnson, George F. Doughty, Louis Krohn and Thomas T. Gaff, of Cincinnati; Samuel A. Carlton, of Boston, Mass., C. M. Shelley, of Selma, and Thomas R. Rouihac, of Greensboro, were elected directors. This board elected Mr. Fred Wolffe president; Mr. Theodore Cooke, vice-president: Mr. Maximilian Colon, secretary and treasurer, and George F. Doughty, assistant treasurer. Messrs. Fred Wolffe Edgar M. Johnson, Louis Krohn, Thomas T. Gaff and George F. Doughty were made the executive committee.

in a talk with Mr. Wolffe last night we learned that the new organization, would committee.

In a talk with Mr. Wolffe last night we learned that the new organization would quickly complete its line by filling the gap between Greensboro and the Alabama Great Southern. There has been trouble about securing the right of way along the projected Sawyersville route, which has caused the delay so far. This will be removed or obviated very soon. It the right of way is not secured readily an entire new line to the north of Sawyersville, recently surveyed, will be built. Mr. Wolffe confidently asserts that the line will be in operation within seventyidays, say by March 1st.

The name Cincinnati, Selma and Mobile naturally suggested the question as to how Mobile would be reached from here. Mr. Wolffe says that the river will be used for the present as an another outlet from Selma, but that railroad connection will probably be secured sooner or later. The company have forty thousand acres of coal lands along the line of the Alabama Great Southern, and the new road will be used particularly for the transportation of coal to this point for use and distribution to the south. Selma is to be the most important point in the south as the terminus of the line. As soon as the read is completed shops will be exabilished here.

In reference to the completion of the various gaps.

ine from Meridian to New Orlean, which will be done within a year.

The filling in of the gap to the Alabama Great Southern will be of immense advantage to Selma. It will give us another line to the west and north and another to the southwest. We will have through rains to Cincinnati at once and soon also to New Orleans. The eventual filling up of the gap between Eulaw and Memphis and to Kanass City on the west, and to Brunswick on the east will place us on a great line for the transportation of western produce to the Atlantic.

Mr. Wolffe expresses the greatest confidence in Alabama's future. Selma, he says, has a particularly encouraging outlook on account of the immense quantity of fine land all around it. Mr. Wolffe is proud of being an Alabamian, and certainly Alabama can congratulate herself upon having so active and successful a manager. He has done more than any other man in the last five years to bring capital here, and his example is being followed by many others. We trust that he may long continue in his glorious work.

The party of gentlemen mentioned go out this morning at 8 o'clock to make a tour of the road. They will return this afternoon, and will afterward go on to Montgomery and New Orleans. We wish them a pleasant trip, and an increase of interest and confidence in the development of our section.

THE CHICAGO PRIMER.

Is this the Great Eastern? No: it is a Cincinnati girl's shoe. See how easy it is to be mistaken.

How happy the Man looks. He is going to have his Picture taken to send to his Girl. Poor girl how sad her Christmas will be.

Here is a Poot. He is going up in the Elevator. How happy he looks. Pretty soon he will walk lown, looking very Sad. He has seen the Editor. See the Boot. How large and shiny it is. A Man owns the Boot. Call on his daughter some even-ng, and see what it was made for.

This is a Horse. It can go very fast. The Man who is standing by the Horse looks sad. He is broke. Do not go to horse races, Tommy, or you will be broke too.

What a fine-looking Old gentleman. Is he rich? Yes, he is very rich. See how healthy he looks. He will not die of Enlargement of the Heart. He lives in Chicago.

Here is Miss Lucy. How proud and fine she looks in her new Sealskin Sacque. It cost three hundred follars. Lucy's Father will Fail next week.

What have we here? It is a Young Man who wea a yellow Ulster and a High Collar. Does he smok ligarettes? Yes. Let us all take a kick at him.

The Man is at the Desk. He is an Editor. What sthat in his hand? It is a Microscope. What does he Editor want of a Microscope? He is looking for is Salary.

This is a Young Lady. She is sitting at a Piano, and will soon begin to sing "Emoty is the Cradle, Baby's Gone." Run away quickly, children, and perhaps you will miss some of it.

Where is Tommy? He is playing base-ball in the lot. Can Tommy play well? Yes indeed, for he sometimes makes a Home Run. This is when his Father heaves in sight,

See the Elevator. It is not running. How the Man Swears. He is an Editor. Do Elevators ever run? Oh, yes, when they are first put in a build-ing, and before they are Paid for. See the light overcoat. The Young Man is wearing it in December. He has been saving up his Money to buy Wheat, and cannot afford to get a warm Coat. Some day, perhaps, he will Drop on himself.

The Dog and the Cat are fighting. Is this wrong? Yes, it is very wrong for the Dog and Cat to fight, because they are not married. When you grow up, children, you will see the point of this Lesson.

What a large dog. He is going swiftly up the street. So is a Tin Can. It is tied to the Dog's tail. Will the Dog win the race? I should smile. It is wrong to tie a Can on a Dog's tail if the Owner of the Dog catches you.

See the Man. He is holding on to the Lamp Post. How the wind whistles and blows. It is very cold. The Man is full as a boiled olow. If he goes home will his Wife greet him with a Kiss? No, but she will search his clothes for loose change and appear at the Matinee next Saturday. The Man knows this and does not go home. He prefers the society of a Lamp Post to that of his Wife. This Man has a great head.

COTTON COMPRESS

NEW MORSE COTTON COMPRESS.

The Largest and Most Powerful Compress on the Earth. With a Lifting Power of 3000 Tons.

THIRTY-FIVE have been built and erected in four years; and for this period twice as many as all other Compresses, and in the last two years five times as many as all others combined in the United States, making the investment in the Morse Press over one million dollars in four years. 400,000 pounds of material are required for a single Compress, and only from is used of the highest known grade. Their immense weight, strength and durability, make them in the end, the cheapest Compress in use, and the only one to meet, the commercial demands of the present and future. Several of those firs built have now compressed from 400,000 to 500,000 bales cotton, without defect or perceptible wear. The have secured a density (measured in the press) of 75 pounds to the cubic foot.

A FEW CHIEF MERITS.

1. It is, in all respects, simplest in construction, and least liable to disorder or breakage.

2. It is a steam power, and works faster than any of the hydraulic presses and has no packings to give out, when delays would be ruinous.

3. It has fewer points in metion, and consequently less wear and friction than any other compress.

4. Its wedge-shaped rack and cycloidal sectors secure a PROGRESSIVE leverage, nicely adjusted to overcome the increasing density of the bale, as the platen is brought home.

5. Its superior power has reduced freight to a minimum, and wherever located, has made the business of compress wonderfully successful, and at many interior points has doubled the receipts of cotton. New Orleans alone has nine of these manupoth presses: Memphis, three; Houston, three; Norfolk, three; others at Mobile. Galveston, Brenham, Dallas, Fort Worth, Paris, Jefferson, Shreveport, Little Rock, Vicksburg, Meridian, Columbus, (Miss.,) Selma, Wilminton, West Point, Va., Rome and St. Louis, and one may be seen daily at work in this city, (Atlanta.) A Hitch in the Mail Service—A Strange Death in Macon—A Terrible Accident in Social Circle—Death by Drowning—A Negro Whose History Dates Back 110 Years.

By Mail and Wire to The Constitution DAHLONEGA, December 12.—In reference to the delay of the Atlanta mail, it appears that the mail gets to Gainesville about the time or soon after the mail leaves for Dahlonega, and so it remains over at Gainesville near twenty-four hours. Now we ask could not Colonel Frey, the mait agent, interfere in the case and so change the schedule as to have the hern mail brought on to Dahlonega the same day it arrives at Gainesville .- On Saturday night Mr. M. C. Harlan, some seventy years old, died, after being bedridden over a year. He came to this county over forty years ago, from North Carolina. He served several terms as tax collector of the county, was one of our best citizens, and highly respected by all who knew him, —H. D. Gurley and Major Baker have gone to the exposition.

GAINESVILLE, December 13.—Major Moses W, Finger, a highly esteemed citizen of this city, died at his residence to-day, at one o'clock. He had been confined to his bed several weeks with consumption of the bowels, which finally terminated his life. He leaves a wife and several children, all grown —The manicipal election to day is passing off very quietly. The prospect now is that D. E. Banks will be elected mayor, and Redwine, Cox, and Rich, councilmen. —Claud Estes and wife, left to-day for the exposition, intending to go thence to Fayetteville on a visit to relatives.

ELBRITON, December 13.—Mr. D. R. Blackwell and Miss A die Lovinggood were married here today, by the Rev. C. A. Stakeley, and leave for the exposition on the evening train.—The annual conference of the colored Methodist Episcopal church convenes here to-morrow. A bishop will preside and a large number of preachers are expected to be in attendance.—The town tax of Elberton is only one half of what it was last year. Granting license to bar rooms helped to reduce it.

DALTON, December 12—A sociable, largely at ended was given at the National hotel last even-ng. Among the many visitors from abroad were disses Gussie Rooney, of Columbus, Ga.; Daisy Madison, of Lexington, Va., and Miss Brisco, of Sagnan, Ga.

As a landmark of a time ineffaceably engraved upon the memories of the older class, we lately came across a relic in the shape of an old negro whose life and history might well be woven into a tale as thrilling with romance and adventure by field and flood as was ever born in the fertile brain of a Dumas. Old Cyrus is a remarkable specimen of the genus homo, bowed with the weight of an hundred and ten years, with eyesight dimmed and mind beclouded, he still bears traces of that muscle and manhood so noticeable in the first Africans brought to this country. Cy is perhaps the last living African born freedmen in this section, and up to two years since, at the remarkable age of one nundred and eight, retained his mental faculties to an astonishing degree. Nearly a century ago, at the age of sixteen, he was brought over by a Boston slave-trader with a large number of others, all of whom have long since been gathered to their fathers, while this old man has lived on and on, past his day and generation, a lingering landmark of an epoch of our people, now historic. A talk with the old fellow is highly entertaining and amusing. Of course due allowance must be made for his somewhat tropical imagination. Old Cy claims that his capture by the traders was a case of the basest perfidy and kidnapping on record. He belonged to the Fulahs, a powerful interior tribe of the Liberian country, and was no less a personage than the son of King Boma Fulah. The facts of his seizure, as told by himself, are briefly these: He was sent by his tather with a number of c pitves from a hostile tribe with his agents to self them to the traders. The sale having been duly effected to the satisfaction of all parties. Prince Boma Fulah (now old Cy) with his retinue were invited to a fete on shipboard by the shrewd and unscrupulous Puritans. It was the old game. When the prince and his attendants awoke from the effects of the New England rum, they found themselves leagues from their loved land, and what was worse, treated with no more consideratio

Nearly all our citizens who have had occasion to pass along the corner of Mulberry and Fifth streets, on their way to the park, have noticed a little apple and peanut booth, presided over by a man whose legs were terribly deformed. Yesterday morning passing people noticed that the booth was not open, though it was long after the usual hour. Curlosity compelled some one to open the booth, and there, on his pallet, was the cripple, covered with blood and cold in death. blood and cold in death. It is not known when he died. He was seen alive late the night previous, and it is thought that he had a hemorrhage of the lungs sometime in the small hours, and there on his pallet, without any one to help him, he breathed his last. His name was John B. Donalson. He owned a small farm in Houston county, which he rented out some time ago and moved to Macon with his brother, also a cripple. The remains were carried in a wagon to his home near Perry to be interred.

The body of a negro weman named Polly Lewis was found in Flat creek, near Mr. Harrison Upshaw's plantation, in this county, on Thursday last. The friends of the dead woman sent for the coroner, who, not having given boud—as required by law—since his election, tailed to respond, and John S. Dickinson, was sent for, who responded with his accustomed promptness. Summoning a jury of inquest the court repaired to the spot where the dead woman lay, and proceeded to inquire into causes and circumstances of her death. Suspicions of foul play was at once aroused, but from the evidence assured the jury were of opinion that the deceased came to her death from drowning—having, they supposed, accidentally fallen into the creek, and being very old and feeble, was unable to extricate herself, and so drowned. The water where she was found was not exceeding six inches in depth.

One of those terrible accidents which come of boys handling deadly weapons happened at Social Circle on last Friday evening. It is almost enough to freeze the blood in our veins to think of it. Two little boys were out shooting at the pond below the Spencer house, when the gun of one of them was accidentally discharged by the hammer catching in his sleeve, and the contents took effect in the left side of the other, inflicting such a server wound that ne died in three hours. The name of the little boy killed was charles Brown, the name of the other was Sam Avery. Young Brown was a son of Mr. Joseph T. Brown, who was in Atlanta at the time the dreadful accident occurred. This is another sad warning to parents who allow their children to carry guns and nistels before they have judgment enough to know how to use them. to know how to use them.

Mr. C. L. Just think of it; at a supper the other night, although a chronic dyspeptic, he says he ate, at 12 o'clock, fried oysters, chicken salad and fee cream, after which taking a dose of Iron titters, he never spent a more pleasant night, with no dyspeptic symptoms in the morning.

The kidneys are nature's sluice-way to wash out the debris of our constantly changing bodies. If they do not work properly the trouble is felt everywhere. Then be wise and as soon as you see signs of disorder get a package of Kidney-Wort and take it faithfully. It will clean the sluice-way of sand, gravel or stone and purify the whole system. Gents-Whoever you are, I don't know; but I thank the Lord and feel grateful to you to know that in this world of adulterated medicines there is one compound that rows and does all it advertises to do, and more. Four years ago I had a slight shock of palsy, which unnerved me to such an extent that the least excitement would make me shake like the ague. Last May I was induced to try Hop Bitters. I used one bottle, but did not see any change; another did so change my nerves that they are now as steady as they ever were. It used to take both hands to write, but now my good right hand writes this. BURGLARY.—Yesterday about noon Mr. Harrison's residence on Grubb street was entered by a thief who succeeded in getting away with quite a quantity of clothing.

SENT TO JAIL.—Alonzo Barnett, the moke who stole the umbrella from Mr. Armstead, at Ponce de Leon springs, day before yesterday, was yesterday committed to jail by Judge Tanner.

Bird & Compton, 28 Marietta street, has the finest English Plum Puddings, Mince Meat, Raisins, Cur-rants, Prunes, Citron, Orange and Lemon Peel, and a fine line of Christmas goods of the very best CONCEALED WEAPONS.—J. Y. Smith was yesterday before Judge Tanner, for a preliminary trial, upon a warrant charging him with carrying concealed weapons. The case was dismissed for want of prose-cution.

THE SCHOOLS.—The public schools of the city will close this afternoon. The vacation will continue until the 2d of January. Both the high schools and each of the grammar schools are full and in a prosperous condition.

THE CITY COURT—Judge Richard Clark, presiding This court was busy all day with the trial of the case of Woodruff vs. the Atlanta and Charlotte Air Line railroad, suit for damage. Up to adjournment no conclusion had bee reached.

DELAYED TRAINS—The Air Line passenger train due here yesterday at noon did not arrive until 5 o'clock in the evening. The delay was partly due to an accident which happened a freight train about ten miles above Atlanta. There was a large crowd aboard.

DANGEROUSLY ILL—Mr. John Woodward, brother of Mr. Park Woodward, deputy clerk of Fulton superior court, is lying at Dr. Orme's residence, on Luckie street, dangerously ill. It is to be hoped that the grave fears entertained by his many friends may prove groundless.

CAR SHED THIEF.—Yesterday about noon Mr. Frank Harris, of Richmond, Va., was robbed at the car shed of $290. The money was in a purse which Mr. Harris carried in his right hand pant's pocket and was abstracted by the third whengthe crowd, was pressing tightly around his vietim.

A Handsome Clock.—The Kimball house rotunda has been beautified by the addition of one of the largest and handsomest clocks ever brought to the city of Atlanta. Mr. Scoville, in selecting this time piece, displayed more than his usual good taste. The clock is greatly admired.

Bio Luck,—Yesterday evening a negro hunter known as Tom Holmes brought to the city eighteen rabbits, nine squirrels and thirty-two qualis, which he succeeded in bagging during the day. Holmes is a good shot, and makes a good living by the sale of the game he brings in.

BADLY WOUNDED.—Last right a white man, giving his name as Thomas Howe, went to police head-quarters, and after exhibiting a badly bruised fuce, asked for a policeman to aid it the arrest of the man who struck him. An investigation of his complaint showed that Howe had been justly chastised for insulting a lady, on Whitehall street.

Banana Peel.—A Mrs. Heiser, a lady from Charleston, stepped upon a banana rind on Whitehall street yesterday evening and a hard fall was the result. A badly sprained ankle necessitated the use of a carriage in reaching her boarding house on Luckie street, and the probability is that she will remain in doors for several days.

AN UGLY CUT.—Ike Johnson, a colored carpenter, who was yesterday working at a new house on Fair street, cut his foot badly with an adz. He was hewing a log when the sharp edge cut through the wood and chopped his foot nearly in two. Medical aid was hastily summoned and after the wound had been properly dressed Johnson was removed to his home on Mechanic street.

About a Girl.—Two negro men yesterday entertained quite a crowd in Mechanicsville. They were Bob Mobley and Frank Scott and their entertainment consisted of a regular knife duel. The cause of the difficulty was an insult offered an ebony hued damsel by Mobley. In the fight Scott was cut several times across the breast and in the face. Mobley escaped unhurt.

Mobley escaped unhurt.

STRAYED—Saturday, December 10, a mediumsized pointer dog with large liver-colored spots on his right side and head. He had a collar around his neck and a slit in the lower part of one of his ears. Two inches of his tail was cut off, and he

CHEATING AND SWINDLING.—Upon a warrant sworn out by J. D. Mayer, charging him with cheating and swindling J. W. Gillespie, was arraigned before Judge Tanner for preliminary trial yesterday. The evidence indicated that Gillespie had, by representing himself to be proprietor of a business house, purchased a carriage and horse for which he had never paid. After a careful investigation of the case, Gillespie was asked for a $250 bond.

A Bad Accident.—About 11 o'clock yesterday morning a one-horse wagon was struck by a freight train at the Whitehall crossing and completely demolished. The driver saw the train approaching and attempted to cross in front of it, but was too slow. When the engine struck the wagon the driver was thrown several feet, and, although his fall was a hard and wet one, his injuries were slight.

THE SELMA EXCURSION.—The Selma, Alabama, Times, of the 18th instant, says: "Over two hundred excursionists for Atlanta left on the Louisville and Nashville train yesterday aftermoon. Four coaches were full to overflowing, and standing room toward the last was in demand. One hundred and forty-eight tickets were sold at the office here, which number was increased to nearly two hundred and fifty by sales made at points on the A. C. and S. and G. roads." This party will reach Atlanta to-day, and will remain the balance of the week.

Chawford's Condition.—Mr. George Chawford, the Central railroad switch hand, who was shot at the Macon depot Saturday night, is rapidly improving and will soon be out again. The physician says that the wound is a bad one, and that only Mr. Crawford's constitution prevented death. The Central railroad company has offered a reward of one hundred and fifty dollars for the capture of the party who did the shooting. The police have information in their possession which will soon lead to the capture of the murderous assailants.

HYMENEAL—Yesterday afternoon, at half past 3 o'clock, at the residence of the bride's mother. Dr. O. R. Ford, a prominent young physician of Rome. Ga., was married to Miss Mattle V. Jackson, of this city. The bride has been a great favorite in Atlanta by reason of her beauty, and many accomplishments, and many hearts regret her departure from our midst even while wishing her God speed on the future voyage of married life. Dr. and Mrs. Ford left for Rome on the five o'clock train last evening, carrying with them the best wishes of a large circle of devoted friends.

THE BROAD WILL CASE.—This case promises to develop into additional interest. On Tuesday the attorney for the caveation referred to what he expected to prove if a postponement of the case was allowed. On the other side it was claimed that the witnesses mentioned from whom the proof was expected, were unreliable, and could easily be improved.

A report published in, the Morning Express and the Argus of Albany, N. Y., dated May 11, 1872, speaking of the case against J. B. Scarratt, says that "the case was dismissed and that nothing had been introduced to sustain the charge," and that "Mr. Scarratt was honorably discharged."

THE CITIZENS' BANK .- In the article in yesterday THE CITIZENS' BANK.—In the article in yesterdar,'s CONSTITUTION it was made to appear by some misapprehension that Sheriff Perkerson said more than he did. He said that Mr. Brown's bond had been fixed a FS,000; that it had been signed by Mr. C. I. Brown, of Atlanta.and Mr. A. M. Brown, of Gainesville; that Mr. Patterson's bond had been fixed at $4,000; that Mr. Grant Wilkins and Dr. Amos Fox had signed it, and that General John B. Gordon would do so when he could gain access to it, but denies having said anything about Mr. Patterson turning state's evidence. Mr. Patterson emphatically asserts that he never contemplated such a step.

The Dof Life.—On Tuesday evening a bright mulatio girl known as Agnes Dobbs attempted to suicide at her home on Railroad street. It seems that Agnes has been forsaken by her beau and is not on the best terms with her sisters, and becoming dissatisfied with the world generally, sought an exit by the morphine-line. At a drug store o Marietta street she purchased on Tuesday afternoon a quarter's worth of morphine and a pint of liquor, and after redring that night swallowed on About 2 o'clock her condition was discovered and a physician hastily summoned. Yesterday morning she was somewhat better, and hopes of her recovery are now entertained.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.—Mr. James Ray, of Monroe was married to Miss Fannie Richardson, of Griffin in the Presbyterian church in that place at mo'clock yesterday morning, the Rev. M. McN McCoy officiating. The attendants were Mr. Jame Mobley, of Social Circle, and Miss Stible Richard day at one o'clock and are at the Kimball.

HESS ACME O'ERA COMPANY.—After highly successful engagements in several cities, this excellent company has returned to Atlanta to fill an engagement at DeG've's opera house. To-night "The Mascotte" will be produced. It is a companion opera to Oilvette, is by the same author and is in some respects superior to Oilvette, and the company perform it very nicely. It is full of light and pleasing melody, and has plenty of funny absurdities. Reference to the company is unnecessary, as it has played two successful engagements to large audiences in our city. The 11th of December the company produced "The Mascotte" at Robinson's opera house, in Cincinnati, and the Times, of that city, says: "The Hess company have given their operas in this city in excellent style, leaving little to be desired. In fact the two operas given here have not been so well rendered in this city before, causing an increased popularity of the operas."

Why Are You Billious!

Because you have allowed your bowels to become costive and liver torpid. Use Kidney-Wort to produce a free state of the bowels, and it will stimulate the liver to proper action, cleanse the skin of its yellowness, cure bilious headache, and cause new life in the blood. Druggists have it, both dry and liquid.—Zion's Herald.

DROPPED DEAD.

A Well-Known Rallroader Dies Suddenly of Heart Disease.

Yesterday afternoon about three o'clock Mr. Wyly Church, a locomotive engineer, dropped dead at his residence on Rock street. For some time past Mr. Church had been engaged on the Brunswick road, but about a week ago came home sick. Since his arrival in Atlanta he has been confined to his room the greater part of the time. Yesterday morning he seemed to be much better, and conversed quite cheerfully with his family. After dinner he walked about the house and spoke of his condition being much better than for several days past. About three o'clock he started to walk across the room, and when near the middle sank to the floor. An examination showed that he was dead. The indications are that he died of heart disease. A Well-Known Railroader Dies Suddenly of Hear

Mr. George Lawshe is quite a success as a fauc comical skater, and is worth the price of admission t see him. He will always be on hand.

There is now no excuse for using hog's lard. Refined cotton seed oil is a pure vegetable oil—wholesome and delicate. It is better for biscuit and frying purposes than laro, not scorching so easily. It is good as butter for cake. It is much cheaper. Retail price 75 cents per gallon, or 10 cents per pound. One pound goes much farther than a pound of lard. There are 7½ counds of oil in a gallon, which, at 75 cents per gallon, would be 10 cents per pound. Two-thirds of a pound of the oil is equivalent to a pound oilard. To secure a pure article buy of Hope oil mill, Memphis, branded Hope cotton butter.

Mr. John C. Latham, of Latham, Alexander Co., accom panied by his wife and Mr. C. G. Miller, special partner of the firm, reached the city yesterday for a few days' stay. Mr. Latham is one of the most prominent merchants of New York city, there being none of his years who can outrank him. A southern boy, starting business with comparatively little capitul, he has developed a wonderful success and stands at the head of the best known cotton and banking firm in New York. His constituency reaches from Maine to Galveston, and there is hardly a business community in America in which his name or the name of his firm is not known. He has many friends in Atlanta who will be glad to hear of his arrival. Mr. Miller, the special partner of the firm, has long been a prominent financier in New York state. He has managed successfully many large railroad interests and his name is one of the strongest and most reputable in commercial circles. Both of these gentlemen are very much interested in the exposition and have been among its strongest as a monst reputable in commercial circles. A scene typical of bustle and activity which has spread wide throughout the commercial world, the name of Atlanta was prested to our reporter last week as he entered the extensive establishment of the southern prince of dry goods, John Ryan. No Competition.

On the 29th day of November, and after the re signation of Dr. Kennedy, the Chief of Department of Awards, the manufacturers of Clark's O. N. T. Spool Cotton withdrew all their entries from competition at the Atlanta Cotton Exposition, and are now continuing their exhibits for display, only, the Director General having accepted their withdrawal from competition to that of display.

Another leading thread manufacturer have placed a card on their exhibit, stating that they are for display only, so that there cannot now, under any circumstances, be any competition in spool cotton.

Winter Term begins January 5th and ending first Thursday in June, 1882. For Catalogues apply to KEMP P. BETTLE, President, dec10—dlw Chapel Hill, N. C.

Dear Sir-For several years I have been ter-packed with customers from one cast to the states of the bargains always found here keep it filled with a large patronage, and now when so many visitors are in our city the reputation of his low prices, which are so well known throughout the southern states, attract an endless throng to his vast emporium.

The great labors of John Ryan to supply the public with every class of goods in his line is, perhaps, the most prominent feature of his almost phenomenal success. Any style of goods from the lowest to the finest grade manufactured can be obtained in his ut rearableled display of dry goods, carpets, boots and shoes, hats, etc., and every department of his establishment are unlimited variety and an unequaled assortment can always be seen. With a determination to furnish the public with every class of goods in their appropriate season, he has not been unmindful of the wants of his enstomers as the season of holiday gifts and Christmas presents is approaching, but on the contrary he has furnished an upper story of his tremendous building for the special department of these goods and has been opening for the past week the largest stock of toys and Christmas presents of every description ever displayed in the south.

We were informed by Mr. Ryan that these goods would be sold at prices which would shake from their very foundation the established prices of the regular dealer in fancy goods and would saye the public from the outrageous imposition of an enormous percentage heretofore demanded. He has certainly the largest collection we have ever seen and our advice to all who wish to purchase anything in the toy line it og yei isMr. Ryan a call, for they will certainly be pleased with his assortment and prices.

Wanted.
